LULLABY

I folded the half-finished blanket
With care
And tucked it away
With the new teddy bear.

But the empty arms
And the grieving heart
Are not so easily
Set apart.

We were never to hold you
Or tell you goodbye
You were gone from this earth
Without even a cry.

But you'll always be part of us
Just the same
God keep you, our angel
Without any name.

1996