MESSY MOLLY

Messy Molly doesn't care.
She hardly ever combs her hair.
Face all smudged and shirt tail out,
Her toys are scattered all about.
Oh, Messy Molly!

Messy Molly's room's a fright.
It's hard to find her bed at night,
Piled high with toys and this and that.
Once she even lost her cat!
Oh, Messy Molly!

Then one day Molly's mommy said,
"Clean up this room and make your bed!"
So Messy Molly got a broom,
Swept up her floor and cleaned her room.
Oh, Messy Molly!

"Good job!" Molly's mommy said.
She patted Molly on the head.
But then she opened the closet door
And Molly's stuff crashed to the floor!
Uh-Oh, Messy Molly!

2004 Honorable Mention, Poems for Children